Market Outlook and Investment Strategy

US Fed further deferred the interest rate hike in October amid the universal uncertainty of global economy. The commodity prices range traded along with increasing volatility, but remained at the bottom level. We still see opportunity of US interest rate hike by the end of this year.

Regarding China, the recent economic data and policy action help alleviate the top two China fears: hard landing and RMB devaluation. In this November, the IMF will decide whether to put the RMB into the Special Drawing Rights basket. The current market consensus seems to be: the chance is very high & the inclusion will boost sentiment towards the RMB. As expected, the 5th Plenum of the Party has set the GDP growth target for next five years at 6.5% per year. The Plenum policy makers also eased the one-child policy, as the markets expected.
