Market Outlook and Investment

The U.S. stock market reached new high after Mr. Trump's inauguration as the new US President. Investors improved the confidence on U.S. domestic infrastructure expansion and also on U.S. economy growth. The latest dovish speech of U.S. Fed also helped to stabilize the USD dollar index at around 100. We still expect the steady U.S. economy growth will boost the inflation expectation, and the U.S. Fed will choose to hike interest rates at least twice in year 2017.

China managed to bolster the GDP growth of FY16 at 6.7%. As the PPI continued expanding while CPI is well under control, we expect steady growth in at 1H17. The most important task of PBOC of this year is to maintain the financial stabilization / to prevent severe financial crisis in the banking system. PBOC has already tightened the liquidity by hiking the SLF / MLF rates, we cannot rule out the possibility of hiking interest rate if the total outstanding lending remains at high level. We expect that expanding FAI and stable domestic consumption will be the two pillars for China's economic growth in year 2017.
